Passenger Transportation Board
MOVING FORWARD, TOGETHER

Passenger transportation regions

The Board uses Passenger Transportation Regions (regions) to support regulation of passenger transportation services across the province, evidence-based and systemic decision-making, and administration of certain rules and policies. These Passenger Transportation Regions reflect the differences in geography as well as varying population density across the province.

Further details about the application and use of Passenger Transportation regions are outlined in the policy.

The Regions are defined based on regional district boundaries, where applicable.
